

Twelve Religions and Modern Life – Gandhi Ambedkar Study Circle

Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav

The Gandhi- Ambedkar Study Circle organised a reading session on the book ‘Twelve Religions and Modern Life’ written by famous revolutionary freedom fighter and Stephanian Shri. Lala Hardayal, as a part of Azadi Ka Amrut Mahotsav on 30th August 2021. The reading focused on the spirit of human-self and the need for critical thinking in one’s life. The session highlighted Lala Hardayal’s religious philosophy and talked about numerous aspects of various religions around the world. The reading session progressed by discussing the book and how each one of the participants perceived the reading. The session was an in-house society programme and was attended by six members of the Gandhi-Ambedkar Study Circle. The one-hour long session was concluded by throwing insights on analysing freedom and religion from the perspective of Lala Hardayal and its relevance in the current socio-political scenario of our country.
